Broccoli, you too? is a Korean indie pop band formed in 2005. Warm arrangements and lyrics rooted in everyday life explore youth, parting and growing older.

"Song Is Universal" and "Graduation" won Best Modern Rock Song at the Korean Music Awards in 2010 and 2011 respectively. The two albums of the same names were also selected for EBS Space Gonggam's 2024 "100 Korean Albums" project.

Following Snobs (2019), their fourth album, We all know we fail* (2024), continues their reflections on everyday life, failure and perseverance.

In summer 2026, the band completed their Early Tropical Night Korean tour and made their Taiwan debut with shows at WHOA on 29 August and JAM JAM ASIA on 30 August. In October, they will tour four Korean cities with Taiwanese band Shallow Levée.

> "Once banned from the airwaves, 'Graduation' sings of a season of loss we have all lived through or are living still — giving shape to a future awaited with hope and fear, and to days at once clear and bleak, in stronger words and more dramatic melodies."
> KOREAN MUSIC AWARDS CITATION, 2011

> "A band that has turned plain words and simple notes into extraordinary music."
>
> CINE21 (FILM & CULTURE WEEKLY), 2024

Sound & Vibe

K-INDIE POP · ACOUSTIC POP · NOSTALGIC · COMFORTING

For fans of: early Sodagreen (蘇打綠) · Cheer Chen (陳綺貞) · Kings of Convenience

Everyday stories in Korean, carried by warm, bittersweet melodies.

Guitar, keyboards, bass and drums leave room for the voices and the stories. The songs move between lightness and reflection, with a direct, conversational warmth.
